

WILD: ARCTIC

Solidarity Edition

FEBRUARY 2023

*What you love
You will protect.*

Majestic landscapes and contrasting seasons make the Arctic the backdrop for a fascinating array of wildlife.

Each is a master of survival, yet the region's dwindling health is an alarm bell for our planet.

WILD: Arctic. Made by hand. Created with heart.

Project WILD and Montegrappa depart Africa in search of cooler climes. Our newest collaboration with wildlife photographers and campaigners, Helle and Uri Løvevild Golman, ventures to the Arctic, where climactic extremes are as different as day and night.

The WILD Nature Foundation founders' devotion to the world's most remote locations highlights what we all stand to lose. Two-tone Montegrappite emulates the moods of the threatened region in dazzling shades of blue. Our proprietary artisanal resin offers efficiencies that reduce the waste of conventional acrylics.

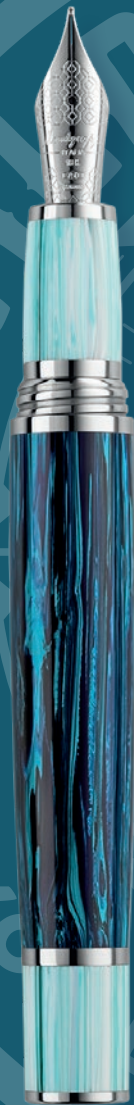

- The 'Ghost of the Arctic': the snowy owl's wing feather is a staple of all Project WILD editions. A custom steel clip symbolises the fragility of nature – and Helle and Uri's enduring efforts to preserve it.
- "What you love · You will protect." Engraved into the cap top, Project WILD's mantra and expedition patch offers direction – and a reminder that love is always the answer.
- Spread the word. Limited editions of 999 fountain pens, rollerballs and ballpoints are accompanied by a selection of postcards featuring Project WILD's finest polar wildlife images.

In December 2017, Helle and Uri Løvevild Golman were fulfilling a life's mission when a knife attack in Gabon almost cost Uri his life. His road to recovery has been long, but their professional mantra has helped them overcome personal hardship. Today, the National Geographic Explorers and Photographers remain determined as ever to preserve the world's most remote locations.
"What you love · You will protect."
